Community engagement and participation

Cities will empower residents to actively participate in decision-making processes, governance structures, and community initiatives. This may involve participatory planning methods, citizen-led urban projects, and digital platforms for civic engagement.

Image: AI-generated by Canva