Sustainable design

Future cities will prioritize sustainability, with green building practices, renewable energy sources, efficient waste management systems, and green spaces integrated into urban planning. Buildings will be designed to minimize energy consumption and environmental impact.

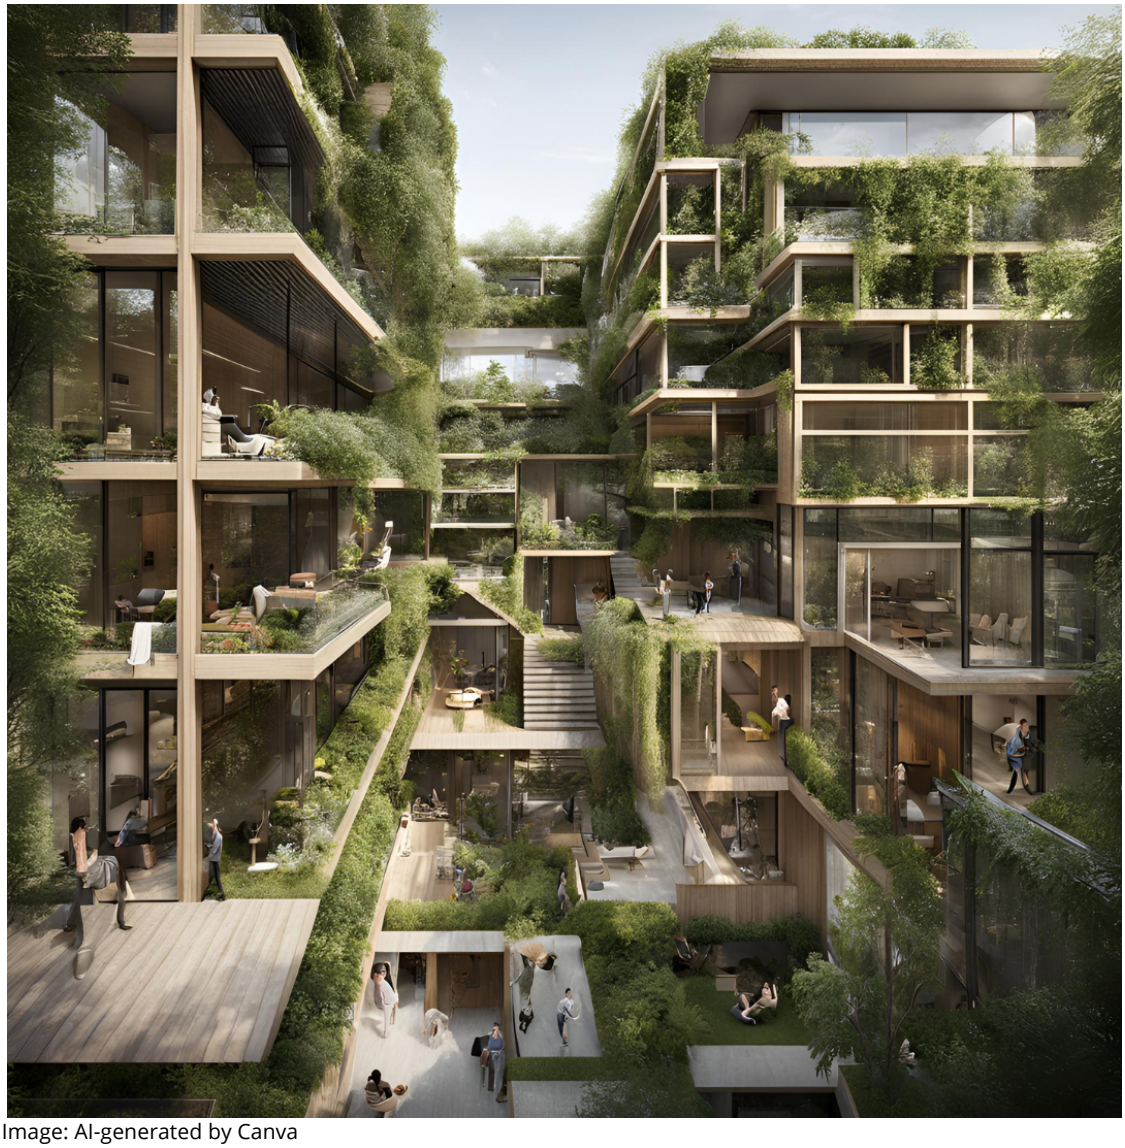

Image: AI-generated by Canva